George has a great sense of humor.....always ready to tell a joke or two and the next time he saw you he'd tell you the same jokes again until he got some new one's. A fewyears back George and I were talking about investing and he told me about a stock he owned and was really happy with, it was Monsanto. I bought that stock on George's recommendation and a little research, a couple of months ago I sold it after making a handsome profitTHANKS FOR THE ADVICE GEORGE !!He always talked about his wife, kids and how much he loved doing things for his grandkids. He followed his Dallas Cowboys no matter if they were winning or losing. He also loved to share stories about his watch collection... I learned alot about "time" fromGeorge..... George will be missed in this world but I'm sure he is still telling his jokes and making people laugh where ever he is at now !! Co-worker and I hope a friend,Rick
